four-year trial, the first four and five-year trials were planted in four and five bushels less than Legacy, equaling it in any season. Like Legacy, it produces quite a proportion of kernels. In favorable seasons it is claimed to give a good season sample.

It is a medium-early variety of desirable qualities, resistant to lodging and capable of yielding reasonably well in any season. It is a good chicken, big or little. I always save the tea leaves and coffee grounds for them, though some do not like to do this. Some advocate a damp mash as well as a dry chop (the ingredients will come); put this as they will not mind it. I have found that if it is not too hot it must not get sour or stale. Give them the outside cabbage leaves, parings of vegetables, and the like. In cold weather I give them a hot baked

HISTORY PROVES WHO CHRIST WAS AND IS, MINISTER SAYS
At the evening service on Sunday, Feb. 12, Rev. E. A. Wright took for his text, "And if I be lifted up from the earth I will draw all men unto me." He said that the history of the world is a story of the life of Christ.

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Wright said that he was a tremendous statement made by a tremendous person, Christ, who was the greatest of men. He said that the history of the world is a story of the life of Christ.

Mr. Wright, continuing, observed that history and witnesses bore out who Christ was and is. He quoted from the Bible to show that Christ was the Son of God. At the same time he said, "This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased." Again, he said that the history of the world is a story of the life of Christ.

When Christ spoke the words of our text, said Mr. Wright, "the new world was born, the new era was begun, the new age was dawning. It was necessary for Christ to die upon the cross we cannot understand."

As further evidence of the truth of the teachings of the Bible, Mr. Wright referred to the vision which John experienced on the Island of Patmos, where he saw the Lamb slain, and where in the solitude he was brought in close contact with eternal life.

Coming down to modern times, Mr. Wright pointed to Moody and Spurgeon, and other who were witnesses for Christ. These men spoke out of their hearts, and their testimony is to the power of Christ.

Mr. Wright said that people are called upon everywhere to do things they cannot understand. He said, "But we must believe in things we cannot understand. He said, 'But we must believe in things we cannot understand. He said, 'But we must believe in things we cannot understand."
